Books & Books, located inside the Sterling Building on Lincoln Rd Mall, is a locally owned bookstore specializing in art, design and architecture books. The store has an impressive inventory, including everything from hard-nosed numbers to imported English gossip magazines, and the large window-inviting space provides natural light and a variety of seating provides opportunities to browse the pages of a potential purchase. Special events include monthly author calls and book signatures, and a nearby café serving burgers, wraps, as well as vegetarian and vegan dishes. Picture: Yuri_Arcurs/E+/Getty Images There are too many branches of knowledge to list them all, and knowledge comes in all shapes and forms. A doctor can have knowledge of neurosurgery, and a farmer may have knowledge of weather patterns. A chimpanzee may know the most effective way to peel a banana, and an engineer might know the most efficient way to build a bridge. There are so many things to learn that it's impossible to learn them all. Very few people learn the square root of 289, australia's capital, the location of the North Star, the deepest position on Earth and the weight of Manhattan simultaneously. Very few people learn such a wide range of knowledge at different times. Which is why it's impossible to know everything. Lucky for you, this quiz is almost impossible. If you dig deep and try to remember everything you've ever learned in this history of your learning, you may be able to get every question right in this quiz. You'll have to channel your company classes years ago and combine them with the common sense street smarts you learn today to get those questions right, but it can be done. Do you think you can do that? You'll amount to a test and try to answer these almost impossible questions of knowledge.
